The Exposition itself—made up of all that genius and cunning could devise, and arranged in unapproachable grandeur—baffles description. We would do the managers injustice to attempt to describe it. The display of the Fire Department in front of the Exposition building, at 3 o'clock, was a grand affair. Five steam engines were put in operation in about two minutes. For the Columbia Herald. NASHVILLE, TENN., Oct. 15th, 1872. EDITORS HERALD:-The excitement in regard to the race for Congress between Cheatham and Johnson, is very high in this city. Both have very warm and devoted friends. Johnson has a strength here he has nowhere else in Middle Tennessee, unless it be in Summer and Macon counties. A great deal of his Macon counties. A great deal of his strength here is among the foreign population and among the mechanics. This is in some respects strange, for whilst he was Governor, he never did anything for the mechanics of Nashville, or to promote their interests. He never contributed money nor influence to aid the indurstrial interests of this city or of the State. Why the foreign population should support him on an issue that has passed almost into Golivion, I cannot understand. This is not and should not be made an issue in this canvass, and it be made an issue in this canvass, and it is true that the president of the Johnson Club in this city, was a member of that party. Take from him these two elements, and he is very weak. The Reception Committees met the delegation at Gallatin, Tennessee, with elegant refreshments, and from there on the crowd was the morriest ever seen. At twelve o'clock Wodnesday night, the Mayor and city fathers o'Louisville met them at the depot with warm and hearty welcomes. Thursday at ten o'clock a hundred hacks were in readinese at the Gait House, and the whole party, headed by the Reception Committee, went out in procession to see the city. We were first carried to the "House of Refuge," erected and sunstained by the city authorities. This institution is the home of poor orphan boys that are picked up in the alleys and gutters of the city. One is also in process of erection for girls. The one already in operation has within its walls about three hunired boys, ranging from three to eighteen years of age. They were all formed into procession and marched out into the garden to meet us. When he werything was quiet, the Rev. Dr. Rivers, of the Broad Street Methodist Church, addressed the crowd. This great preacher, and writer of moral philosophy, delivered a speech full of pathos and touching beauty. When he spoke of the regiment of orphans before as in solemn line, there was accreed ann unmoistened eye in the assemby. May if the God of the Fatherlers place all orphans in such hands. such rent.

Under the provisions of this act of 1825, ch. 21, our courts held that the lieu, given the landlord on the crop, was like any oher general lien on property not in the possession of the owner of the lieu,—that such lien was neither a jus in re nor jus ad rem, giving the landlord neither a right to the crop, nor any interest or title therein, but merely a priority of satisfaction out of the proceeds, and that it had to be enforced against the crop itself or not at all. They held further that the landlord could only enforce his said lien by first getting judgment against the tenant within the time prescribed, and then enforce his lien by execution levied upon the crops.

lst. The code, § 3539, gives more distinctly a lien from the date of the contract.

2d. The code, § 3542, gives the landlord a right to recover of the purchaser, with notice of the lien, the value of the property, which was not provided in the act of 1825, and,

3d. In addition to this remedy by judgment at law against the tenant and execution to be levied on the crop in whosoeyer hands it may be, the code, § 3341, declares that the lien may be enforced by original attachment issued on affidavit that the rent is due and unpaid, or, before due, on affidavit that the detendsince, on his way home from a tour, (minus the bridal), to California.

part of the crop under the exemption laws. The court put the decision upon the ground that, under our laws as they now stand, the landlord's lien is a specific one, while the exemption is genef the landlord on a different footing om the decisions under the act of 1825, the latter treating it as vague and general, or rather as nothing but a right of priority, while the opinion of Judge Wright in Hill vs. George, treats it as a specific lien. And this, we think, is certainly the proper view to be taken of it. It stands as a vendors lien upon the land sold, or the mechanic's on the house built, or any other of a like character, each having its own peculiar mode of enforcement as furnished under our Ju-

If then the landlord has a speci abstantive lien upon the crop, and if he substantive lien upon the crop, and if he may enforce it, as we have seen, by attachment, in the very nature of things, and analogy to all other liens of a specific character, it must follow that wherever the landlord can reach by attachment the identical crop—the specific thing to which his lien attaches, he has the right to levy upon and impound it, and his lien thus enforced, will be superior to the equities of a purchaser with and his lien thus enforced, will be superior to the equities of a purchaser with or without notice, and of all other persons whomsoever. It would be totally inconsistent with all our legal ideas of a specific lien, io suppose, that it could be deteated without any waiver, lackes, default, or negligence of the landlord, by the mere wrongful act of the tenant, notwithstanding it might work a hardship to the innocent parchaser. But wherein does this differ from the purchaser of mortgaged property, where the chaser of mortgaged property, where the mortgage is registered? The registraion of the mortgage is constructive notice to the purchaser, and he is bound by it, although in point of fact, he may be entirely ignorant of its existence. Here the law gives the lien and furnishes the law gives the lien and furnishes equally constructive notice to the purchasers. In such case the doctrine of caveal emptor applies with full force.

3d. But it is insisted, that the remedy given by attachment applies only to cases where the crop has not passed from the hands of the tenant; and that the remedy by judgment and "execution to be levied on the crop in whose-soever hands it may be," applies, and applies to cases alone, where the tenant has sold or disposed of the crop. We cannot coincide with this view of the law. The legislature evidently saw the hardships worked to the landlord under the old act of 1825, and the idecisions which followed; and, with a view to correct these evils, they intended to enlarge the lahdlord's remedies; and it we will only look at the spirit of their legislature did not take away or abridge any of the landlord's remedies.

For Fleater.

EDITORS HERALD:—In view of certain points which may arise in the next Legislature of Tennessee, relative to the reduction of legal interest, and legislation upon the new, or Torbett, issue of the Bank of Tennessee, I have been solicited by many friends and fellow-citizens to become a candidate for Floater, to represent the counties of Maury and Williamson, which 'I have consented to do, and through your columns, I now take pleasure in announcing myself a candidate. If elected, I have no personal interest to subserve, except in so far as I am jointly interested with the great body of my constituents in the good and prosperity of the State, and in that event, I promise to make them a faithful sentinel upon the watchtower of her liberties, ever watching her treasury, and almost bankrupted condition, with an eye of jealousy. I regard monied rings and monopolies as the greatest bane to a faithful and equal administration of good government. They are corrupting in their influences, and I am, therefore, opposed to them.

C., and I never had a return of hermorrhage until 1852, in Nashville, when I was waited on, by Drs. Jennings, Cheatham and Martin (black head), brother of our own Judge, I returned from the city to my practice in Maury; had several attacks of hemorrhage, but for the last fifteen years have not suffered, except from a distressing cough, which kept me constantly in dread of hemorrhage and habitually under the influence of spirits, to drive off the blues. All this time the lungs presented none of the symptoms.

Mr. James Bailey and F. B. Craige, got into rather an unfortunate dilemma, Crossing the William's ford of Lieper's views we have taken is the correct one. The legislature did not take away or abridge any of the landlord's remedies under the old act; but they added to, and enlarged them. The remedies given by the legislature are threefold: 1st. You may sue the purchaser for the value of the crop, where he has notice of the lien. And this provision evidently contemplates a case, where the crop has been placed beyond the reach of the landlord, or,

2d. You may take judgment against the tenant and levy your execution upon the crop, and this expressly contemplates a case where the identical crop can be found; or, with a perfect certainty that it will eradicate the disease, and with assurance, founded on proof, that no harm can arise from its use in any quantity.

That which protects from or prevents this disorder must be of immense service in the communities where it prevails. Prevention is better than cure; for the patient escapes the risk which he must run in violent attacks of this baleful distemper. This "Cure" expels the miasmatic poison of Fever and Agree from the system, and prevents the development of the disease, if taken on the first approach of its premonitory symptoms. A great superfority of this remedy over any other ever discovered for the speedy and certain cure of Intermittents is, that it contains no Quinism or other injurious effects whatever upon the constitution. Those cured by it are left as healthy as if they had never had the disease.

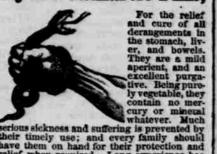

whatever upon the constitution. Those cured by it are left as healthy as if they had never had the disease.

Fever and Ague is not alone the consequence of the miasmatic poison. A great variety of disorders arise from its irritation, among which are Neuralyta, Rheumatism, Gout, Headache, Blindness, Toethache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitation, Painful Affection of the Spiece, Hysterics, Pain in the Bowels, Colte, Paralysis, and derangement of the Stomach, all of which, when originating in this cause, put on the intermittent type, or become periodical. This "Cure" expels the poison from the blood, and consequently cures them all alike. It is an invaluable protection to immigrants and persons travelling or temporarily residing in the malarious districts. If taken occasionally or daily while exposed to the infection, that will be excreted from the system, and cannot accumulate in sufficient quantity to ripen into disease. Hence it is even more valuable for protection than cure; and few will ever suffer from Intermittents if they avail themselves of the protection this remedy affords.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver it is an available to production the system.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpid ity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity, and producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines fail. PREPARED BY cury or mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelied, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar-coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution or diet or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languer, and Loss of Appe-tise, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickmess, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action, or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Bysentery or Diarrhea, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back, and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Bropsy and Bropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion, and relieve the stomach. An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

AGUE AND FEVER.

OR CHILLS AND FEVER.

The proprietor of this declebrated medicine astly claims for it a superiority over all com-dies ever offered to the public for the asfe. certain, sneedy and permanent cure of Ague and Fever, ar Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the en-tire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion, that in In a great many cases a single dose has I cen sufficient for a cure, and whole families have een cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, how ever, prudent, and in every case more certain or a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the tonic, a single dose of Bull's Vegetable Family Pills will be sufficient.
